Honor Thy Father and Seniors, Unless you are Kevin White

By Al Mccray

The Kevin White federal case is over. It took two weeks for the jury to say, guilty, guilty, guilty, guilty, guilty, guilty, guilty and guilty. Oooops did I put in an extra guilty? He was found guilty on seven of ten counts. Sentencing will be early in 2012.

I do feel that this criminal activity was brought to Kevin. I don't believe he sought out to find a brother from Georgia to bribe him. If the Feds indeed entrapped Kevin White or not, I don't know, I was not there. But I will say this; if those G-Men still have some of that bribe money left over, I am more than willing to help them part with it. In my case I will take the money on the first meeting and we could save money on dinner for the set up meetings by eating at a fast food's place. And yes, I will be a smiling and grinning on the camera as I 'be' counting those hundred dollar bills. As an additional bonus to the taxpayers, I will save thousands of hours of investigative costs, no need to import a brother from Georgia, and no need for a court trial. I will plead guilty 3 minutes after I have spent all that left over bribe money.

So G-Men, just offer me the money and I will take it especially now since this is a recession and my cell phone bill and car note is behind. I am very weak and susceptible to cash bribes. I just need money.

As I followed the saga of Kevin White's latest trial, the evidence (the methods of gathering it), testimonies, and witnesses did not really strike me as being unbelievable. I must say I am shocked that there wasn't any plea deal? I guess with a plea deal the court appointed defense attorney would have earned less money in fees?

The only thing about this federal case that disgusted me was how cheaply Kevin placed blame on his departed father, Gerald White, for his criminal conduct. I am in no way saying that Gerald did not have a role in these crimes. But Did Gerald White put a gun to his son's head during the planning and commission of these crimes? Did Kevin, an ex- police officer, not know that he was committing a crime? Was that shameful defense ploy advice from his lawyer? That was a pretty low blow.

You know, now that I have reflected back on Mr. White's misadventures in the past three years, he has also blamed a respected community senior citizen and community icon for his misadventure in that Atlanta hotel. And what about the confusion that day at lunch with the former county attorney. It seems to be a trademark with him, blaming others for his personal bad conduct.

Will Kevin White ever fess up and take personal responsibility for his own conduct?

Honoring thy father and seniors takes on a whole new meaning when it comes to Mr. Kevin White. I just remembered why I added an extra guilty. Kevin White is also guilty of the disgusting and heinous crime of dishonoring thy father and seniors.
